Change in management and sales management:

Dr. Thomas Kraft and Dr. Patrick Rauh leave Resuscitec GmbH

The medical technology company Resuscitec GmbH has a new management structure. The Freiburg-based start-up is thus initiating the next phase of the company's development.

The previous CEO Dr. Thomas Kraft has left the company's management board as of March 31, 2024. The previous Head of Sales, Dr. Patrick Rauh, left the company on 31 May 2024.

In the newly formed Management Board, Prof. Dr. Christoph Benk will take over Dr. Kraft's duties and, as CEO, will be responsible for Sales, Clinical Support, Development and Regulatory Affairs. CFO Jörg Ronde will additionally take on the role of COO with responsibility for materials management and production.

Niklas Lindberg will take over as Head of Sales. The Swede has many years of experience in setting up sales structures and selling sophisticated medical technology products. Due to his medical background, he is ideally suited to the tasks at Resuscitec.
